America and Mexico.
Mr., Silas Burrows, who is known we believe, to a great number of people in Hong-,	Wangap T

a long letter on the relations between America

No one probably knew the mind and opinions	Tivo Spacio that in his latter days his idea were very different. in relation to the South American republics, from what they were when he delivered his address to Congress cetablishing the Munroe doctrine. When that message was delivered the South American republics were assuming national importance, and Mr. Monroe then believed the people there were capable of maintaining governments and free institutions similar to ours in the United States. Tirue, however, changed his views and opinions before his death, which took place at his son-in laws, Mr. Gouverneur, in Prince street, on the 4th of July, 1831, when General Winfield So tt founed him on his left and I performed the same sacred duty on his right till he died.

The last great exertion made by Mr. Monroe. short time previous to his death, was to sit for his portrait several days, which was taken for me as the last link which bound us. like father and son, to each other. I have many proofs to show that I was one of his most intimate and confidential friends, and, as an American citizen, I protest against our country, just emerging from the fearful etruggle, again commoncing the sacrifice of our sons and endangering our paper system and na finnal credit by advocating and maintaining doctrine that the author. The United States go. vernment would not perform this duty, but adopted the method of a grand juryman in Connecticut, whem I once knew many years ago. The next Sunday after his appointment, when a fight took place near his bouse, he ran out, and, instead of stooning the fight, said to the crowd. "Gentlemen, form a ring; I am grand juryman, and it is my duty to see fair play and a fair fight." This fight in Mexico has been going on for more | Ponkfoolum Roads on Inland Lot No. 757, For than a generation, and the Christian world is disgusted with it. But nothing has been done by the United States but to act the part of the Connections grand incoman. Maximilian has crossed the Atlantic under the patronage of Napoleon and Prench bayonets to keep the prace in Mexico, and the first great act of that good and enlightened use of the Wharf now completed, where vessels menarch on the throne of the Montezames has san be ladened and discharged been to proplaim religious liberty throughout the Innd, by which every Prostetant can erect his bouse of prayer and worship his God agreeably to his education from his perents and duty to his God. This is of inestimable value in leading the Mexican people to understand a democratic republican-

To the Emperor Maximilian and Napoleon are we indebted for this blessing, and I consider it nlane entitles Mexico under Maximilian's roign to be received by us into the American family of notions. of our critical position during the rebellion to establish an empire in Mezico, and by that insult our form of government, is, in my opinion, erroneone. I believe he considered at the time the rebullion was likely to succeed, and placed Maximilian in Mexico to head off the further extension of slavery towards the South. This tra'y great monarch, when confined in the State prison of Ham, by Louis Philippe, became wodded to the accomplishment of uniting the Athatie and Pacific oceans by a canal at Nicaragua espable of passing ships of two thousand tons, and in that confinement completed and signed a contract to accomplish that great undertaking, agreeing to expend himself paragnally on that important work seventy-five millions of franca. Le also about the same time wrote a pamphlet, which bears his signature, and from that document very correct ideas con be formed of the motives which (governed him in establishing the Emperor Maximilian in Mexico. He then recorded " the geographical position of Constantinople is such as condered her the queen of the ancient world, occupying as she does the central point between urape, Asia, and Africa, she would become the entrepot of the commerce of all countries, and chtein over them an immense preponderance, for in politics, as in strategy, a central position always commands the circumference."

"This is what the proudeity of Constantinople could be, and this is what she is not," because, as are suitable for either Offices or for a Dwelling Other Dwelling Houses, used Mostesquien cays, "God permitted the Turks and Offices. should exist on earth, a people the most fit to passess usidessly a great connect There exists in the New World a State as admirably gitnated as Constantineple, and to the pres int time as uselessly occupied—the State of Niegragur. As constantinople is the centre of the Accient World, so is the town of Masagna the centry of the New; and if the tengue of land which separates its two lakes from the Pacific cloud was out through, she would command, by her central position, the entire coast of North and rate terms.
